

Digital Youth Armenia, 14th – 24th May 2021

In today's digital age, youth workers should be able and ready to react to the new demands, challenges and opportunities it brings. It is becoming more and more important to have the ability to work with audiovisual materials and make professional documentation of activities in all areas of humans' work - including youth work. Also, audiovisual materials are not only a way to promote youth work, but also a very effective tool - activities of shooting videos or taking pictures are more and more common.

During the training, the participants are going to learn the basics of making photos, shooting videos, editing the materials, using animation and various professional equipment. The participants are going to shoot their own movies during the project – divided into groups, they will experience the whole process of making a movie from the beginning till the end – from coming up with the idea/story till the official premiere on the last day.

We then want to spread this idea by organizing more projects on this topic with the help of the participants from this training. They will also carry out follow up activities in their sending organizations to share their experiences with their colleagues and peers.

The training course will gather around 30 participants (youth workers) in order to work together on the topic. We also will to address topics such as intercultural learning, sense of initiative, gender equality, etc. and explore the idea to use audiovisual technology also as a method of promoting these topics amongst young people.
